I have been covering the 3GSM show for Engadget and I have been amazed about the marketing Palm is doing to promote the Treo 750v: all the airports are full of huge posters of the device and even in the Barcelona airport, there is a stand where you can try and play with it.

On the other hand, I have been using intensively the 750v on the show (lots of calls, mails and SMS) and the battery life has been very satisfactory, always getting back to the hotel with 45-50% of juice. [All pictures taken with the Treo 750v]
